Area builder guilty of 13 code violations

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Byrne Benson, the 60-year-old home builder who erected the Applewood Subdivision in Romulus, was found guilty shortly after noon Tuesday on all 13 counts of fraud. Sentencing was set for Oct. 1.

His wife, Mary Louise Benson, 59, was cleared of involvement when similar charges against her were dropped on Monday in Wayne County Records Court.

The Bensons were arrested and charged with violations of the building contractor's code early in June following complaints being filed with the Romulus Police Department by new homeowners in the Applewood Subdivision and sub-contractors Byrne had hired to complete those homes.

The sub-contractors charged Benson and his wife failed to pay them for the labor and goods used to complete the nearly 100 homes in that subdivision.

Romulus police claimed that the total violation figure was in excess of $700,000.

The sub-contractors began filing liens against the homeowners and, in some cases, sent foreclosure notices in an effort to obtain their money.

The homeowners in turn hired lawyers to protect themselves. One or more homeowner claimed they paid the money directing to the Bensons and that Mary Benson was handed the checks.

While 34th District Court Judge Henry Zaborowski remanded the charges against both defendants to the Records Court, Records Court Judge John M. Shamo ruled Monday that the charges against the builder's wife should be dismissed, citing they shouldn't have been forwarded by Zabrowski.

Closing arguments were heard Tuesday on the charges against Benson, following testimony by six homeowners and sub-contractors.

Benson, who pleaded guilty to similar offenses in Oakland County, is currently serving a one year sentence in Oakland County Jail.

Police Detective Sgt. Dan Snyder said Benson faces a six months to three year jail term and $5,000 fine for each of the 13 charges.

Rocky school year predicted

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

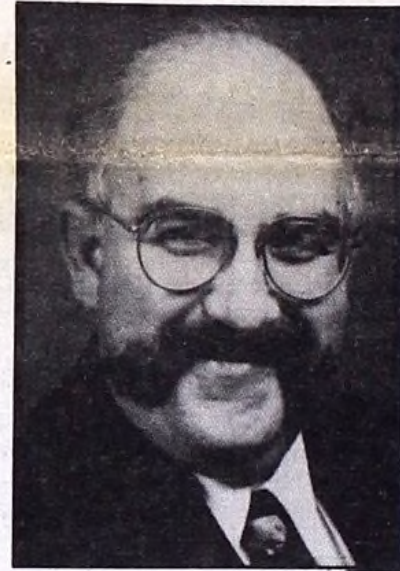

Howard Kesner, newly-elected president of the Romulus Community Board of Education is predicting a bumpy future for state schools.

"The Michigan Legislature's action of abolishing the school tax end of property taxes has caused a lot of turmoil in school systems throughout the state.

"We are just hoping that they successfully come up with alternative taxes to fund schools in time. Any plans I was putting together have been thrown out the window because of that action," Kesner said.

"We remain very hopeful that the legislature and Gov. John Engler can come up with a tax proposal that can be implemented in plenty of time for next year," he continued.

Concerning the lawsuit the school district has filed against the City of Romulus, Kesner said, "We may be fighting over a dead issue, if Tax

Howard Kesner

Increment Financing Authorities' funds are stripped by similar legislative actions."

The school district recently filed a lawsuit against the city seeking to block TIFAs from using school millage funds for non-school projects, such as roadway improvements in the city.

"We hope this can be settled without going to war," Kesner said, but the suit has further bloodied relationships between the two taxing bodies.

Asked what joint meetings are being planned between the two governmental bodies, Kesner said he knew of none at the present time.

The last meeting that could even be considered a joint meeting, Kesner said, was the effort last year to put together a joint Romulus Marketing Committee that would have sought to entice new business and home developments to begin in Romulus.

"It's too bad that has been taken off the front burner," Kesner continued.

Also recently elected to board offices were Mary M. King, vice president; Debra Hoffman, treasurer; and Sandra Langley, secretary.

The Policy Committee includes King, Langley, Terrel LeCesne, Edward Wilkerson, Dorothy Harris, Ron Oleszkowicz and Richard Szent.

Council candidate makes youth safety her top priority issue

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

This is the third of three articles on current challengers that will face off against Romulus City Council incumbents this fall. Next will come stories on the incumbents seeking re-election and then the non-contested races for mayor, city clerk and treasurer.

Romulus Cable Television Commissioner Gwen D. Sibert is seeking to take a step forward and win a seat on the Romulus City Council this fall.

Sibert, a 17-year resident of the city, revealed she moved to Romulus from Detroit after she felt that the inner city scene was becoming too hazardous for young children.

Now the single parent of two teenagers, Nezula, 19, and Calvin L., 16, feels she needs to join the battle to keep Romulus streets and neighborhoods from taking on an image similar to that of Detroit.

Sibert has become involved in many community projects from seeking to save starving youths in Africa to ending street violence in Wayne County cities including Romulus and Detroit.

The 42-year-old mother, who has cared for many stranded local youth in recent years, plans to make "youth safety" the number one issue of her summer and fall campaign.

Sibert is picking up on a recent challenge made at a Romulus High School "Project Serve" meeting and said she will sponsor an effort to have a Romulus teenager named as a non-voting member of the City Council.

"It's a perfect way to have today's youth learn the democratic system," Sibert said, "by having the students themselves select their candidates and then have an election to select the person, who will become their spokesperson in the city."

While the elected teen won't be able to vote on issues, he or she will be able to speak out on the matters concerning today's youth and their dreams for the future.

These students need to be trained to become our future leaders, she said.

Sibert will also push to have the Romulus City Council meeting returned to its former Tuesday meeting date, so that residents can attend both the council and school board meetings, if they wish.

Having extensive training in radio and cable television programming, she also wants to help create several cable programs that will give youth and city voters a chance to learn more about their city government.

Sibert wants one televised show to be totally created by city youth and another she hopes to see called "Romulus Speaks," which would allow local residents to talk about issues and ask questions of city officials.

Having been appointed to the City Cable Commission earlier this year, Sibert said she feels "frustrated" that more local shows are not currently being offered to residents.

When told by some she should have run for the Romulus School Board if she was that interested in youth opportunities, Sibert said "no the school board should not be the only group interested in our children."

She then explained "I hope to serve as the liaison between the schools and the city."

Sibert, who said her home has been broken into three times in recent months, said she is a strong supporter of Neighborhood Watch programs.

But feels that youth recreational programs and other activities need to be enhanced so that Romulus' crime rate remains manageable.

Sibert wants to make sure that Detroit Metro Airport does not take more than its share of the city's property and is strongly opposed to casino gambling becoming part of the Romulus scene.

Sibert said she was attracted to Romulus as a youth, when she visited her grandparents home here.

"The city had a strong family image then...and I want to see that continued. Casinos do not fit that image," she said. While she has worked for many African-American causes, she does not want her campaign to take on any black versus white stances.

"I will work to have church leaders, both black and white, join a common cause for our youth. As for endorsements," Sibert said, "I'll be happy if I can get the support of most of the city's youth (even though they can't vote this year) and that of the local church congregations."

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Woman robbed of car, jewels

A 40-year-old Canton Township woman told Romulus police she was robbed of her 1991 Mercury Cougar and $4,700 in jewelry Sunday night, while parked in a lot outside a hotel on Wickham Road.

The victim said she was sitting alone in her auto when a car drove up along side her vehicle.

A bandit rapped his shotgun against her driver's side window and shouted, "I want your money and jewelry," she said.

He forced her to surrender two rings, one bearing a diamond and the other a garnet stone, and then told her to lie on the ground.

The bandit drove her car away, while his accomplices escaped in their own car.

She called police from a hotel phone.

Romulus twins attend festival

Nishan and Nissan Jones, 8-year-old twins from Romulus, attended the 18th annual Twins Days Festival (the largest of the kind in the world) in Twinsburg, Ohio, on Aug. 7 and 8.

More than 3,000 twins from as far away as Russia, Japan, Germany, Israel and New Zealand, attended the event this year.

The Jones twins will be entering the fourth grade at Cory Elementary School this September.

Back in the early 1800s identical twins Aaron and Moses Wilcox settled in what at that time was Millsville, Ohio.

In 1817, they asked the town to change its name to Twinsburg in exchange for six acres of land that today is town square and $20 cash toward the first community school.

The Twins Days festival features more than 50 contests and a "Double Take Parade."

Well builder to offer talk

James Clapperton of Environmental Disposal Systems, the firm constructing a deep disposal well in Romulus, will be the main speaker at the October meeting of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce.

Clapperton said he will offer a short video, brief talk, core samples and a question and answer period for chamber members and guests on that day.

The well, that will begin operations next spring, will be used to store liquid hazardous wastes.

Car hits home, pops gas line

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A 77-year-old Romulus woman motorist told city police officers that the accelerator became stuck open on her 1990 Lincoln Town Car last Wednesday, causing her to lose control of her vehicle.

The car struck the side of a house at 36756 Bibbins, causing minor damage to the car and house, police said, but a gas line on the outside of the home was ruptured in the collision.

Fire Chief William Greenslaid said a vacationing firefighter, Lt. George Simko happened to be in the area when the accident occurred.

Simko had a tow strap in his truck and used it to pull the car away from the house, Greenslaid said. He also used a wooden plug to stop the natural gas from seeping from the pipe until Michigan Consolidated workers could arrive at the scene.

The house is located near the Romulus Police Headquarters and two doors away from the Community United Methodist Church, where Vacation Bible School sessions were under way.

Sixty youngsters playing in the area were led into the church building until the gas line was capped.

No one was injured, police said.

No charges yet in court probe

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

No charges have as yet been filed following the financial audit and investigation of the 34th District Court records, which reportedly has been completed.

Chris DeWitt, a spokesperson for the attorney general's office in Lansing said confirmed that no charges have as yet been filed.

"All I can tell you at this time, like I told you before, is that no charges have been filed. I cannot speculate on whether charges will be filed in the future," she said.

Last March the 34th District Court Presiding Judge William Szlinis informed the Michigan

Supreme Court of some "undisclosed information" involving the court.

The Supreme Court sent a financial audit team to Romulus to begin what Szlinis thought would be an examination of the court financial records.

"Audits occur all the time," Szlinis said in March, but "this is the first of its type here that I know of." He refused to hint at what type of investigations were being performed.

In addition to the financial audit, state police officers began an undisclosed investigation, which apparently was completed several weeks ago.

A state police investigator more than a month ago stated, "Every time I thought this probe was complete, something else came up." He admitted that the information gathered during his investigation was being turned over to the state attorney general's office and any decision on potential charges would come from that office.

In the meantime Court Administrator Nancy L. Schuette and her assistant, Tammy Rlopelle, remain off duty, but on the payroll.

Carol Bowman, the court director of probation, is serving as the acting court administrator.

Early in the audit, Szlinis stated it would "be erroneous to state that the court officers have been suspended or relieved of their duties."

Parents oppose pay-to-play

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Several parents of students in the Wayne-Westland schools told members of the school board that the new pay-to-participate program is inequitable.

Members of the High School Band Boosters' organization expressed concern before the pay-to-participate program was approved and continue to feel the program is inequitable to a group of students who receive funding from booster organizations, spokesmen told the board members at the Monday evening meeting.

"You're asking band students to pay $11,000 for no more than 15 minutes of playing time," John Glenn Band Booster member Patricia Doucher said.

Doucher said the boosters pay for the cost of the uniforms, instruments and some transportation. Doucher was upset that band participants will be asked to pay $167 each to participate in a program.

Students wishing to participate in secondary instrumental and vocal music performances will pay $25 each under the pay-to-participate program. Students participating in forensics, operetta/musical, drama and newspaper would be required to pay $15 each.

A position paper from the Wayne Memorial Band and Orchestra Boosters, requesting that a separate charge be administered for marching band, was presented to the board members last week. The boosters group, represented by former school board member Kathleen Chorbogian, said a lower rate should be set for marching band because the boosters provide much of the money needed to run the program.

"We feel that for the district to double dip the parents of Marching Band students is unethical and would alienate one of the most supportive groups in the entire district," Chorbogian said.

"We can not continue to pay out this kind of money and an outrageous pay-to-play fee also," Chorbogian said.

Pay-to-participate Committee Director Greg Baracy said the marching band and cheerleaders were included in the same category as athletics because their program coincides with the football season and many of the same costs are incurred.

Killer to be sentenced

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Convicted Romulus killer Daniel Ray Dowling, 44, now of Front Royal, Va., will be sentenced on a second degree murder charge on Sept. 9 in Wayne County Recorder's Court.

Taking advantage of the new "Crash the Docket" program in Wayne County Courts, Dowling plead no contest on Aug. 10 to the murder of his live-in girlfriend (a topless dancer) back in 1978.

Dowling entered the plea in Wayne County Recorder's Court before Judge Michael Talbot. A second degree murder conviction was imposed.

The "Crash the Docket" program began a few weeks ago in an effort to clear up the backlog of cases in Wayne County and works to entice various defendants to enter pleas rather than face extensive criminal trials.

Part of that court agreement allows the defendant to select the Recorder's Court judge who will do the actual sentencing.

Dowling has chosen Judge Harvey Tennen and the sentencing date has been set for Sept. 9.

The shooting death of Joanne Lincoln, 23, on Aug. 28, 1978 occurred before the Romulus Police Department was formed. The shooting was investigated by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

The sheriff's department reported at that time that Lincoln was shot in the head in the apartment she and Dowling shared at Middlebelt and Ecorse. She died two days later of the wounds.

Dowling reportedly was questioned after the shooting, but no charges were pressed. He claimed that the shot came through the window.

But earlier this year, a former friend of Dowling's testified at his arraignment in the 34th District Court in Romulus, that Dowling admitted to him that he had accidentally shot Lincoln, after she had refused to perform oral sex for him.

Middle School opens Sept. 8

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Last year, Romulus Junior High School students faced three principals, classes at Wayne County Community College and then a return to a totally remodeled school.

This September they will encounter a new school name - Romulus Middle School - and new educational structure.

Opening day will be Sept. 8 and will last from 8:22 to 11:30 a.m. An orientation session for new seventh graders will be conducted earlier at 10 a.m. Sept. 2.

Principal Andrea Williams revealed Monday that the junior high staff has been working for this change for the past five years.

"The hope is that the new educational team concept will connect the youth closer to their schools," Williams said.

Instead of departments (science, math, etc), the student body and staff will be united into four separate teams of about 158 youth each and an average of eight staff members, making the school student-related rather than subject-related as in the past, she said.

"To add even more feeling to the concept," Williams explained, "each team will have its own name and color, noting that the intramural team color will have no bearing on the school colors."

The team concept will allow the same group of students to inter-relate with the same teachers in the same area of the school building all week long.

The new program allows the teachers more flexibility and the students more communication times with teachers, who will know them by name this year, Williams said.

The first period of the day will last about 60 minutes long and will include attendance taking, she said. Home rooms will be eliminated.

The hope is that the new educational team concept will connect the youth closer to their schools.

- Andrea Williams
principal

Two new periods also will be added during the day. The first will be a preparation period for teachers during which time teachers can discuss students' achievements with other educators, prepare lessons, compile records, etc.

At the end of the day, another session will be held. The time slot will be known as advisory period and will be a time when teachers and students can inter-relate on daily happenings. Both the positive and negative happenings of the day can be discussed, Williams said.

Some of the new class happenings will include a choir class headed by Judy Thompson and a Spanish class in addition to the current French language class offerings.

In addition, the new Middle School will offer media journalism for both print and video presentations, a transitional (accelerated) math class, an algebra class and a Smart Lab (using technology 2000).

Seven new teachers also will be instructing Middle School students this year.

They include Robert Beauchamp, social studies; Oscar Butler, science; Gail Fraley, language arts; Joann Martin, special education; Karen Linebaugh, math; Wayne Schimming, social studies and Mary Ann Tyrczniewicz, science.

New city election machines expected

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Dinosaurs may soon be extinct in Romulus.

The City Council approved City Clerk Linda Choate's request for bids on a new electronic voting system and absentee counting board.

Choate was given demonstrations of the two approved voting system models this month and hopes to replace the 17 "dinosaurs" (1930 heavy metal voting machines) in time for the November election.

The cost of the new technology is expected to run $150,000 or more.

The old machines were suffering from repeated breakdowns, were hazardous to move around and were creating massive storage problems at both City Hall and the various district schools that were being used as voting precincts, according to the clerk.

The council also approved the purchase of:

- five portable radios costing $4,100 for the Building, Safety and Engineering Department from Motorola Communications and Electronics.

- six portable radios costing $6,457 for the police department, also from Motorola.

- six new computer terminals costing $7,548 for the police department from IBM Corp.

A request to let bids for six Scott II A air packs (self-contained breathing apparatus) for the fire department.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry asked Mayor Beverly McAnally for a running total on replaced city equipment.

Fire Chief William Greenslaid told Raspberry that the old Scott Air Packs will be traded in, while the old radios will be altered so that no one can pick up police or fire department frequencies.

Rev. J.D. Landis

Certificates will be awarded to those completing the course.

4 inducted into Hall of Fame

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

They have achieved success by overcoming many obstacles, and recently their accomplishments were applauded by the Wayne community.

Four individuals from the Wayne-Westland area were inducted last week to the Athletic Hall of Fame at Jake's Again on Wayne Road.

Denver Branum, Wheelchair Olympics, Ted D'Pulos, Wayne parks and recreation director, Stacy Graham, college volleyball and Norm Hoenes, baseball coach, each received a plaque to honor their success.

Bill Brooks was the host for the event.

"Denver Branum attended Holy Redeemer High School in Detroit," Brooks said. "He was a Wayne resident from 1972-1979. He is a distinguished member of the Detroit Sparks Wheelchair Basketball Team beginning in 1964 when he was selected Rookie of the Year."

Since 1964, Branum achieved national championships in 1967, 1968, 1971, 1972, 1979 and 1982.

"Denver was the Most Valuable Player on the 1967 championship team and also was selected as First Team All American from 1967 to 1979," Brooks said. "Denver was a versatile player and participated at all positions, guard, forward and center.

"He also was player/coach for the 1988-89 season and guided the team to second place in the National Wheelchair Basketball event."

In addition to playing for Sparks, Denver was also a member of the 1979 Gold Cup Team which won a gold medal. He was a Stalwart performer with the U.S. National, Paralympic and Pan American teams, traveling to 15 different countries on four different continents.

"Denver competed in basketball, swimming and track and field," Brooks said. "He won 200 gold, 50 silver and 20 bronze medals. For these achievements, he was inducted into the Wheelchair Hall of Fame for Track and Field in 1972 and also the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in 1992."

Denver and his wife Patricia have three children and currently reside in Canton Township.

D'Pulos attended Wayne High School and was awarded six varsity letters-three for football, two for track and one for basketball, according to Brooks.

"After graduating Ted attended Albion College where he played varsity football," Brooks said. "After two years Ted transferred to Eastern Michigan University where he also played football and achieved a bachelor of science degree.

"Ted's formal education was finalized when he received a master's degree from the University of Michigan Institute of Gerontology."

D'Pulos' career began as a physical education teacher in the Redford Union School District. Three years later, his love of athletics led him to accept a position in the world of public recreation as the supervisor of parks and recreation for the City of Wayne.

"He was supervisor from 1957 to 1969 and then was appointed director of parks and recreation, a post he currently holds today," Brooks said. "During Ted's tenure as director, the City of Wayne recreation programs have progressed and fulfilled the recreational needs of the local community and became a model for other communities to emulate."

D'Pulos and his wife Margaret have four children and live in Wayne.

"Stacy Graham began participation in organized athletics with the St. Mary CYO Basketball as a fourth grader," Brooks said. "She played at St. Mary through the eighth grade and was selected on several All-Star teams at invitational tournaments."

Graham also played three different sports at Stevenson Junior High School: basketball, volleyball and swimming.

"Stacy attended John Glen High School and is one of the few students to be awarded nine varsity letters, three each in basketball, track and volleyball," Brooks said. "She was named to the All League First Team for basketball as a junior and senior and All League First Team in Volleyball her senior year."

Graham was captain of both the basketball and volleyball teams as a senior. When she graduated, she was presented the U.S. Army Reserve National Scholar-Athlete award and a full volleyball scholarship from Eastern Michigan University.

"Stacy played four seasons at Eastern and is only the ninth person to receive four varsity volleyball letters," Brooks said. "During her junior year the team won the most games in the history of the university."

"They comprised a record of 30 wins and only five losses. Stacy was an integral part of the team and was selected to the All Mid-American Conference (MAC) First Team."

Graham was named MAC Player of the week Oct. 15, 1990. During her senior year, she led the team in several offensive categories and also blocks.

"She was named the most valuable offensive player," Brooks said. "Stacy has completed her classes for a degree in Child and Family Development and is now pursuing a teaching degree. She has coached volleyball at both the junior and senior high school levels and last season was an assistant coach at Concordia College."

No strings attached

This week, the campaign finance reports of candidates for election to the Wayne-Westland board of education were made public.

The top two spenders were also the top two vote getters, which should send a very strong message to many citizens who might otherwise be thinking of public service. Unless you have a deep pocket, don't do it.

But these two candidates did not actually fund their own campaigns. Most of their expenses were paid by contributions—that is donations of individuals and groups who supported their candidacy and advocated their election to the school board.

Teachers' unions and administrators are known for large contributions to just such campaigns in an attempt to secure representation of their interests by candidates. Special interest groups of all kinds do it through PACs (Political Action Committees) which contribute inordinately large sums of money to state and federal elections—money which eventually decides the outcome of the election.

We most sincerely hope that this isn't the case in the Wayne-Westland situation. During the campaign, the claim that winning candidates Patricia Brown and Mat McCusker were controlled by the teachers and represented the staff interests was made repeatedly by those opposing their candidacy. Now, with campaign contributions from several teachers and teachers groups, more smoke is swirling around that claim.

Brown has a nonchalant attitude about it and shrugs it off with, "Hey, it's no different now than during the campaign. That's what they said then and that's what they say now. And, after all, those are the people that elected us."

That type of candor is refreshing. Not many would admit that vested an interest. But Brown also denies, as does McCusker, that anyone will now control her votes or actions on the board.

We hope not. We do not want to see our schools controlled by any special interest groups of any type, not in Wayne-Westland, Plymouth-Canton, Van Buren, Belleville or Inkster. Nowhere. There is no place for it in the education of children. If it has crept in, we urge candidates who may feel any obligation whatsoever to any special interest group to stand up and be counted and, if necessary, not to seek re-election if there are any strings attached to any contribution of any kind.

McCusker has had to make that choice. He knew with his last term on the board that placing a millage election on the ballot would doom any election bid he made. He voted for the millage, and he did not get re-elected during the next campaign. He demonstrated then, as did others serving on the board of education, that they took their responsibilities more seriously than their campaign. As well they should.

Every conscious voter whose IQ reaches room temperature is well aware of the special interest groups, lobbyists and PAC contributors who control our state and federal government. We have seen creeping evidence of the influence of union contributions in some local municipal offices. That's too close for comfort.

Even the suspicion or hint of such an influence in our schools should be unconscionable to any thinking, feeling parent and voter.

The only special interest to be considered in our schools should be our children.

We hope our present board members follow that credo as well as many have in the past.

Best of luck

The Canton Community Foundation has recently announced the team leaders for a 60-day fund raising campaign with a goal of $200,000.

That's right, $200,000.

Despite some very unfair criticism, these people and this organization do a lot of good for a number of different community services and groups. And they usually keep a very low profile.

We hope they make their goal. And no matter what the outcome, we thank each of them for the effort.

CAN IT HAPPEN HERE?

Parents support school millage

To the editor:

It was interesting to read The Observer Monday, Aug. 1. There were many letters to the editor written by people who are not voting for the millage. Hopefully, everyone reading information written in any letter to the editor will make an attempt to verify facts that are written in order to make informed decisions in the voting booth. Remember, you can't believe everything you read, sometimes you must find things out for yourself.

Also, it was interesting to read the lengthy article concerning a forum that is being offered to parents in our Plymouth-Canton community concerning gang-related activities. It seems that even though we might not have formal gangs in our area at this time, it is not unreasonable to suspect that this may become possible in the future, or else why is this forum being offered to parents?

The article stated that it is important for parents to encourage children to become involved in positive experiences because gangs can provide a "family" for children who have nothing to do. This is not to imply that every child will become a gang member if our millage fails, but we feel that there could be a direct relationship between the formation of gangs and the loss of extra curriculars or other meaningful activities that take place in our schools. If the millage fails, we will also be losing counseling and alternative education programs for our children who are experiencing difficulties. We believe that it is far better for our children to belong to a "family" of students that are interested in sports, music, art, theater, honor activities, etc., than in a gang that is interested in gangmentality activities.

You might say that this is a scare tactic, but we didn't write the article on gangs. We are simply pointing out that the world can be a scary place for kids with nothing to do. We will all have to deal with this in September if the millage fails. We are concerned about all the children in our community. Please vote eyes, because in reality, we feel our children, not money are indeed the bottom line.

By the way, Observer editor Jeff Counts, Rep. Jerry Vorva and Gov. John Engler can be as negative toward our schools as they want, but the fact is, they do not have children in our schools, and thus will not be directly affected by these decisions. Also, the millage will be for one year instead of two. Vote yes for one year, then if you have a gripe, show up at the school board meetings and become involved in positive change in education.

Lansing called Jurassic Park

To the editor:

It's Darwinian. The school finance debate is turning Lansing into a political Jurassic Park. All manner of political lizards are slithering through the halls and lobbies of the Capitol. In the weeks to come, the Capital will be infested by political parasites of every description. We will see reptiles, large and small, snakes, strange insects, lower forms of life-like lawyers and lobbyists—and other rejects from the evolutionary scrap heap. The battle is joined. From now on its strictly the survival of the fittest.

I have compiled a list of creatures to look for in our political Jurassic Park. First and foremost will Teacherus Unionensis, commonly called the "Unionized Teacher." These bloated carnivores can be vicious when attacked. Their enormous size makes them sluggish and unable to compete with similar creatures in a fair fight. As a result, Teacherus Unionensis preys upon the young of another reptile, Taxpayerus Officialis, the "Common Taxpayer." When the hapless juveniles of Taxpayerus Officialis are captured, they are held secure by vicious foreclaws, sometimes called "tenures" are tortured endlessly by a strange monotone should known as "lectures." The persistence and stealth of Teacherus Unionensis is truly remarkable as the creature is said to have a brain only about the size of a large lima bean.

Taxpayerus, or the "Common Taxpayer" is a dull creature. But he should not be provoked. His huge size alone makes him dangerous. If provoked into a mindless thrashing about, he can do great damage even to a quicker rival. On certain days of the year he can be heard, but not seen, making a noise that sounds like "No, no, no, no."

Taxpayerus is sometimes troubled by a parasitic worm known as Schoolboardus. Sever infestations of Schoolboardus troubled by a parasitic worm known as Schoolboardus. Sever infestations of Schoolboardus can cause the common taxpayer to become confused and disoriented. On such occasions, the common taxpayer may be heard making nonsensical statements like -- "Vote yes on the millage." It is truly amazing that a brainless, parasitic worm could cause such bizarre behavior in a creature as large as Taxpayerus.

Hopefully, a cure for Schoolboardus infections will be found in the near future—thus allowing the hapless common taxpayer to return to his senses.

Another creature commonly found in Lansing is Scriptor Editorialis, the "Editorial Writer." Editorialis is a small, quick, birdlike reptile. He is an opportunistic feeder, who frequently run in packs, sometimes called "The Media." His opportunistic habits will frequently lead him to steal an egg or an idea from another's nest and claim it as his own. Despite his small size, Editorialis should be handled with care, as he has a vicious bite that can sometimes be fatal to creatures who are already in a weakened state.

These are only some of the creatures that will be converging on Lansing's political Jurassic Park for the big school finance battle. In the future, I would like to explore some of the lower forms of life recently seen on Lansing's political scene—like molds, fungi and superintendents of schools.

Finally, we can only hope that when the dust settles and the school finance battle is over that rarest of all creature will emerge victorious—Homo Sapiens.

Police union praises mayor

To the editor:

Recently, I have watched and seen, to my dismay, Mayor Robert Thomas accused of not treating Department of Public Service employees fairly. I hope that the citizens of Westland realize that there are always two sides to every story.

I represent 78 members of the Westland Police Officers Association which consists of police officers and dispatchers. Our association has worked under the Thomas administration for almost four years and has been treated with nothing but respect and fairness. The mayor is tough and demands performance from all city employees, which includes our members as well as DPS employees.

I think Mayor Thomas understands that in order to continue to provide service to the citizens without raising taxes, we all try a little harder. I think it is important for citizens to know that there are other unions in Westland that are getting along with Mayor Thomas and his staff very well.

As a matter of fact, our police department has received more new equipment and manpower from this administration than we have in the last 10 years. All of this is because of Mayor Thomas.

James H. Dexter
President, Westland Police Officers Association

Resident suggests 'Pro-Kids' group

To the editor:

This is in response to the letter of Paul Gruchala regarding the Schmidt custody battle. Paul, you sound like a very intelligent person, but when one gains in intelligence one must be careful not to become judgmental. Martin Luther said it very well, "Beware, lest in fighting a monster you become one."

It is indeed a tragedy that Jessica was taken away from the only family she's ever known.

Sadly, the big loser is Jessica. This needn't have happened. When I was an accountant in Cincinnati, Ohio, I did volunteer work as a guardian ad litem with the Hamilton County Court System as a member of Pro-Kids. This is an organization that is set up to protect the rights of the child to ensure that the child is not lost in the system or ignored. Perhaps it is time to start a Pro-Kids group in Michigan. If anyone is interested in this, please call me at 728-2357.

Death claims Charles Hunter

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Charles M. Hunter, 58-year-old former director of transportation of the Nankin Transit Commission, died Aug. 11, 1993 at University Hospital in Ann Arbor. Reportedly, Mr. Hunter died unexpectedly of an aneurysm.

Described as a man with a "heart of gold" by Joseph Benyo, legislative assistant to the Westland City Council, Mr. Hunter was a great lover of golf and a past commander of the Harris-Kehrer Veterans of Foreign War Post 3323. He was a U.S. Navy veteran of WWII.

"You could probably call Charlie a perpetual volunteer," Benyo said, "as anytime something was about to be done, Charlie would ask 'what can I do to help?'"

"He got us help quickly from the VFW when we needed to do some work on the Westland Historical Museum," Benyo recalled.

Another time, Mr. Hunter gathered a group to replace some vandalized head stones at historical Ganong Cemetery. While they were there, Benyo said, the group also trimmed the grass and picked up some scattered debris.

"When we were about to celebrate Westland's 25th anniversary, Charlie had large signs put on the buses commemorating that anniversary," Benyo continued.

"If a local charity needed some extra golfers for a fundraiser, Charlie would disappear briefly and return with the name of three or more four-member golf groups.

"Even last year when the city was about to inspect homes for Christmas display competitions, Charlie arranged for the use of a Nankin bus...all we had to do was pay for the driver's labor," Benyo said.

Survivors include his wife, Nan; a daughter, Linda (Kevin) Hunter-Millar; three sons, John M. (Michele), Robert C. (Anne) and Jacob C.; a sister, Grace Crist, and five grandchildren, Joseph, Sean, Nicole, James and Robert.

Memorial services were at the Uht Funeral Home with Glenn Shaw Jr., former Westland city assessor and councilman, officiating.

The service was conducted under the auspices of the local VFW. Cremation rites were accorded and burial was at the United Memorial Gardens of Plymouth.

McCowan, Betty

Betty J. McGowan, 70, of Ypsilanti, died July 26, 1993 in Westland.

Born on Jan. 10, 1923 in Muskegon, she was a homemaker.

'Pay to Participate' policy claims first casualty

Inkster becomes beneficiary

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

"Pay to Participate" has claimed the first but probably not the last casualty of the athletic season.

Andre Graves, an outstanding basketball player who also uses his speed on the gridiron, has decided to finish out his senior year at Inkster High School.

The former Wayne Memorial High School All-Area candidate has reported to the Viking camp, according to Viking head football coach Vic Calhoun.

"We may see other defections from schools that have implemented the policy (pay-to-participate) because some of the parents of these kids just don't have the additional money to pay.

"It's a unfortunate circumstance of our times, but what are you going to do when you can't afford the fee and love to play?" asked Calhoun.

plement "Pay to Participate" in the Wayne-Westland School District this year came after long hours of debate and controversy and was adopted by the school board, according to William Hawley, Wayne Memorial High School athletic director and assistant high school principal.

It is not the first time that the school district has placed a surcharge on athletes. In 1990, after voters rejected millage proposals, school officials adopted a "Pay to Play" policy. The name is a misnomer because an athlete isn't assured playing time if he pays the fee. As is the nature of most sports competition, some athletes will "ride the bench" and may not get into the game.

The school board members have decided to ask the voters again for a millage increase to help balance the district budget. The special election will be conducted on Oct. 18, however, school officials have not decided just how many more mills they will request. (A mill is a $1 tax per $1,000 equalized assessed valuation usually half the estimated market value of the property.)

Although an ad hoc committee set up to make recommendations to the board also suggested that junior high ath-

Brassington leads champs to title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Roland Brassington hammered a pair of homers and knocked in five runs to lead Plumbers & Pipefitters over Angelo's, 21-9, in the championship round of the 17th annual Leonard J. Anderson Memorial Softball Invitational.

The 16-team, double-elimination tourney, delayed a week because of rains, was staged during the weekend in Wayne.

Angelo's reached the finals by dumping Ford Adray in the semifinals, but the Dearborn-based club was no match for the champs in the finals. It had also lost to the reigning champs in one of the preliminary games.

The 1993 champs exploded for 13 runs in the top of the fifth to put Angelo's away. Angelo's managed to keep pace in the early stages thanks to the hitting of Dave Wright, Mike Doran and Chris Hannan.

Hannan got the only roundtripper off winning pitcher Craig Collins, who also gave up three singles to Doran and two hits to Wright.

Angelo's Tom McBride suffered the loss. Along with giving up the two HRs to Brassington, he also threw a home run ball at Andy Peterson.

Angelo's had to fight off a tough Adray's to qualify for the finals. Adray rallied for eight runs in the bottom of the fifth and added two more in the last of the seventh, but fell short, 13-10.

McBride had an excellent day at the plate as he stroked a double and homer off of loser Jim Olson who gave up two homers and a double to Ted Macus.

Don Anzenberger paced the losers. He clubbed two homers and accounted for five of the 10 Adray runs.

In their first meeting of the two-loss, you're-out tourney, Angelo's dropped a 19-7 decision to the Plumbers who jumped on their rivals for six runs in the first inning and had a 10-2 cushion after two innings.

Mike Sliger chipped in three hits, including a pair of doubles, and Roland Brassington had a homer and single for the winners. Don Brooks checked in with three hits, including two doubles. Chris Hannan latched on to a homer and single for the losers.

In one of the more thrilling ball games of the series, Ford Adray edged Little Bill's of Dearborn Heights, 14-13. Bill's tilted the scoreboard for three runs in the last of the seventh but couldn't come up with the equalizer.

Adray's Ed Karas, Greg Tome and Anzenberger made it a long afternoon for losing pitcher Scott Nastaly who gave up four homers to the three hitters. Anzenberger blasted two of the four roundtrippers.

Jeff Ehrenberg tripled and homered off of winning pitcher Olson. He also had six RBIs.

Tournament manager Larry Quartuccio said that, despite the interruption caused by the rains the initial week of play, "the tournament was completed without any further delays."

"We had an excellent crowd and I felt that they saw some great teams in action," Quartuccio said. "And I would like to thank the fans, the sponsors and the teams for making this one great tournament."

Canton crowns playoff champ

Overlooked and trampled upon during the regular season, Mexican Fiesta came on strong in the stretch to win its last game and qualify for the Canton Township Men's Softball League playoffs.

And in the playoffs, the underdogs lived it up.

Mexican Fiesta exploded for six big runs in the opening inning to overpower playoff favorite, Rusty Nail, 16-1, to win the 1993 championship.

That victory avenged an earlier 5-4 loss to Rusty Nail No. 1, the only team to beat the champs in the playoffs.

Mexican Fiesta has fielded a team in our league for many years.

- Bob Dates
recreation manager

The champs embarked on their championship trail with a convincing 23-7 victory over GMAC, then they erased Selimis from their paths, 16-6, before brushing aside Yazaki, 19-13.

The champs then encountered Rusty Nails and pounded them 12-7 in their first meeting of the double-loss elimination playoff. However, Rusty Nail surfaced again and edged the champ, 5-4, forcing the showdown for the title.

The Fiesta men came up with a first inning that Rusty

Nail failed to match in the championship game.

Rustys settled for the runner-up trophy thanks to victories over Dental Diplomats, 11-4; Canton Sports, 13-3; Suda, 13-12.

The top 16 teams in the league were invited to take part in the playoffs.

"Mexican Fiesta has fielded a team in our league for many years," noted Bob Dates, recreation manager. "Manager Mike Vaughns and his club are to be congratulated. They put together a lineup to win the playoffs."

Chantelle Lewis will lead a five-member Inkster delegation to the National Hershey Track and Field Invitational.

Lewis and a sprint relay team from Inkster qualified to represent the state of Michigan by winning gold medals at the state championships staged recently in Howell.

Lewis, a 12-year-old, won the 200-meter dash with a time of 28.45.

Cubs are best in Canton

The Cubs rule the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball world.

Manager Frank Szczepanski and his club proved they were the cream of the crop for the 1993 season by beating arch-rivals, the Yankees, in the World Series.

But the champs had to struggle to get to the top.

In their opening game against the Yanks, it took a two-out, bottom of the seventh hit to break a 9-all deadlock that gave the champs a 9-8 victory.

The Yanks got exceptional performances from Ed Brind and Larry Bostain, who each laced a pair of hits. Ben Szczepanski led the winners with two hits and a couple of walks, while teammate chipped in two hits and also drew a free pass.

The Cubs' hitting assault also was sparked by Adam Allen, who went two for three and Mark Herzog, who had a perfect three for three.

In the "Prep" World Series, the Cubs bolted to an incredible 12-0 lead over the Yanks after two innings, while the Cub pitching staff held their rivals hitless.

Szczepanski twirled a two-hitter, collecting seven strikeouts in five innings of work to notch the victory.

Brandon Swank paced the winners at the plate. He finished with three hits. The victory also clinched it for the Cubs, who went two-up on their rivals.

Vikings fill cage position

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster High School will begin the 1993 women's basketball campaign with a new coach at the helm of the Viking cage machine.

Greg Harris was named as head coach, filling the position left void with the resignation of veteran coach Dwight Hotchkiss.

"Coach Harris has all the credentials and the enthusiasm to make our program a winning one," stressed Inkster High School Athletic Director George Thompson Jr. "Having coached on the elementary and middle school levels, he knows the kids and their talents."

The 34-year-old Harris is a resident of Inkster and graduated from Inkster High School in 1977. He has earned a bachelor of science degree, majoring in education, from Eastern Michigan University.

Although he has coached basketball at McNair Elementary School and on the junior high level, this is Harris' first

Trophy winners

There were other trophy winners who competed last week in the 33rd annual City Championship Golf Tournament that did not make it on the pages of the sports section. So, the Associated Newspapers Sports Staff made room for them today. The 1993 tournament drew some 50 amateur golfers into the field and when all the scores were tallied, defending champ Darrin Kent had his second consecutive overall title. Other winners include: Bob Wanniger (center, photo at right) who won the Canton Township title; Craig Klinczak, second in the township, and Ken Eck who finished in third place (standing left of the champ).

Westland First Flight winner Ralph Starr (photo above, standing in center) shot a 171 for his first-place trophy while Randy Ferguson (at left) and Tom Gibbons finished tied for second at 176 after 36 holes. varsity coaching assignment. "I am really looking forward to the challenge," Harris said. "It's an opportunity to work with kids that I have coached earlier."

Harris was scheduled to conduct his first practice last Monday (Aug. 16). He said that some 20 students have expressed interest in playing varsity basketball this season. "I have talked with some of the kids, but I really won't know who or what we have until we have a couple of serious scrimmages under our belts," he added.

The Vikings will launch the 1993 campaign on Aug. 31 when they travel to Garden City for their first of 20 games. The encounter is a non-conference one.

letics be eliminated, school officials noted that ninth graders will be given the opportunity to participate at the two high schools, something they were not eligible to do because there were teams in the lower class levels.

Hawley does not see a "mass exodus" of Wayne athletes to neighboring or private schools because of the "Pay to Participate" policy.

"I really don't see a rush (of Wayne) athletes to other schools because they have loyalties to their school and coaches," Hawley said. "You are always going to get the one or two that may think it's better to play somewhere else."

"All I can say is good luck to them. Our kids and our teams will be competitive because we have excellent programs and coaches - that's the bottom line."

Champs

Named to the all-tournament team are: Denny McHugh - Little Bill's; John Regan - J & K Transportation; Mike Caulfield, Ed Karas, Tony Anzenberger - Ford Adray; Don Brooks, Mike Doran - Angelos; Andy Peterson, Roland Brassington, Mark Mitchell, Paul Davison - Plumbers & Pipefitters.

McBride walked off the diamond as the Home Run Derby crown after swatting four (out of five) roundtrippers, while John Regan and Don Brooks shared the Highest Batting Averages with .875.

John Sampson was crowned the Home Run King. He had five. However, the 1993 coveted Most Valuable Player Award went to Craig Collins for his superlative all-around play.

French settlers life recreated at festival

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Visitors to Old French Town Days in Monroe, may believe that they have taken a step back in time to the 18th century when they arrive at Hellenberg Park.

On Aug. 28 and 29, the Ottawa Longrifles will be cooking meals on Sterling Island over an open fire, making pottery, weaving, making bullets and doing leather work. Dressed in authentic 18th century costumes, representing traders from the area, the Longrifles will maintain their camp and costumes for the entire festival weekend.

A military encampment will be set up by units parallel to the banks of the River Raisin. La Compagnie Campeau de las Milice de Detroit, the military host of the festival, along with 30 other units will stage battles and display uniforms, equipment and activities of late 18th century camp life.

U.S. and Canadians voyagers - costumed as the canoeists that traveled the rivers with fur cargoes - will compete in the Great Canoe Race on Saturday afternoon.

Weaving, knitting, spinning, quilting and rug hooking will be demonstrated by the French Town Spinners Guild, the Fireside Heritage Crafters and other craft people. Artisans also will be making wheels, blacksmithing and making gun.

Young visitors to the festival can make clay marbles, stitch, weave and dip candles, while their older companions watch the artillery demonstrations, a Seneca run, and fire-starting competitions. Magic shows, storytelling, songs and music of the 18th century also will be featured at the two-day event.

The festival is sponsored by the Monroe County Historical Society, the Northwest Territory Alliance and the Campagne Campeau de la Milice de Detroit.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 28 and 29. Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for those 5 to 12, and parking is free.

Youth threatened

not to appear as court witness

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A Westland juvenile was allegedly warned not to testify in court and struck in the face with a blunt object while waiting at a stop sign in his car Monday evening, Westland police said.

The 16-year-old stopped his vehicle on the corner of Wildwood and Melton roads around 7:30 p.m. when he was allegedly approached on the driver's side by four teens, police said.

One youth approached the victim and asked him to identify himself. The victim complied and the attacker allegedly told the victim if he testifies in a matter pending before juvenile court he would, "do more than this," and proceeded to strike the victim in the face with a dark object suspected to be a handgun, police said.

The victim suffered bleeding and swelling of his nose and lips, according to police reports.

The attacker is described as a white male, between 17 and 19 years of age, 5-feet, 9-inches tall, weighing 180 pounds with long black hair, wearing a pink silk shirt and dark pants.

All three youths are described as white males, between the ages of 17 and 19. One is described as 5-feet, 4 inches tall with blond hair and severe acne, wearing a Metallica t-shirt and blue shorts. Another youth is described as 5-feet, 7-inches tall with blond hair, wearing a brown shirt and black pants. The third youth is described as 5-feet, 7-inches tall with brown hair, wearing a blue shirt and dark pants.

Officers told the victim to notify the judge in the case and Westland police of any further incidents and told him his mother could notify police if she wished to prosecute.

Man accused of beating bill collector

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A Westland man accused of assaulting a local bill collector was bound over to Detroit Recorder's Court for trial Thursday.

Ladarin Madroe Best, 26, was charged with two counts of felonious assault and one count of felony firearms following an Aug. 4 incident in which a man employed at a rent-to-own company was allegedly beaten, struck with a broom handle and threatened with a gun when he came to collect payment for the company, Westland police said.

The alleged attack occurred around 4 p.m. when Richard Lyle Miller, 35, employed at a rent-to-own company, came to the 28000 block of McDonald Street demanding payment on a rented television set.

Miller, who came to the home with another 23-year-old store employee, was arguing with a 27-year-old female resident of the home about the payment when Best pulled up in his automobile and allegedly approached the victim, police reports said.

"Come in my house and I'll blow your head off."

- Ladarin Madroe Best

After hearing Miller and the woman arguing on the porch, the perpetrator allegedly entered the home, asked the woman where the bullets for her gun were and returned to the door with a loaded gun, police said.

The alleged assailant told the woman to open the door and told the bill collector, "I got a bullet for you," police reports said.

The man then put the gun down, went to the door, grabbed the victim and threw him onto the front lawn where the assailant allegedly began punching the employee and beating him with the handle of a broomstick, police said.

The 23-year-old witness fled the scene and waived down nearby Westland police officers. The victim also escaped, crossed the street and waited at a neighbor's house for police to arrive.

When officers arrived at the scene, they observed two large welts on the victim's forehead.

Best admitted to police that he felt Miller was "getting out of hand" with his girlfriend and that he began pushing him off the front porch in an effort to get Miller to leave the home, police said.

Best also told police he threatened Miller saying, "Come in my house and I'll blow your head off," police reports said.

Best was originally arrested for felonious assault, but additional weapons charges were later added.

The woman told police Best does not reside in her home, but is a friend. The 23-year-old witness told police Best has pointed a gun at him in the past when he has tried to collect money owed to the rental company.

National children's theater visits Wayne

The Missoula Children's Theatre Tour Project members will be performing Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Aug. 21 at Stage IV of the State Wayne Theater on Michigan Ave. The group travels to many states throughout the year.

Presented by
MISSOULA
THEATRE

They will be whistling as they work, and when the job is completed, residents of all ages in western Wayne County are sure to fall in love with the finished product.

A unique national children's theater group is heading to the State Wayne Theater in Wayne to present a live performance of Snow White And The Seven Dwarfs using local children as the stars of the show.

The Missoula Children's Theatre Tour Project will be auditioning for the production at Stage IV of the State Wayne at 10 a.m. Aug. 17 for children of kindergarten age through 12th grade, according to Terri Elander, tour marketing director for Missoula.

"Missoula was founded in 1969," Elander said. "This is our 22nd year touring the U.S. We will be visiting more than 500 communities, crossing 46 states."

"We will also be going to Tokyo and Guam. It's a very exciting and neat program."

Missoula is the largest touring children's theater in the U.S. The Tour Project is based on a week-long residency where a team of actors/directors develop and produce a full-scale children's musical production with 50-60 local cast members.

"During the residency, professional actors and directors conduct auditions and rehearse the 50 local children who are cast in the play," Elander said. "The plays, which are updated versions of classic fairy tales and children's stories, are original musicals 60 to 90 minutes in length."

Professional actors Barbara Porter and Rick Rikcovalinski will coordinate the musical with Porter portraying the snow queen and Rikcovalinski portraying the prince.

"It's a wonderful experience for the whole community," Elander said. "This will definitely bring something new to the children. It will be an experience they'll never forget."

"They learn to focus. It's all goal-oriented work where everyone can achieve success."

Each production comes complete with professionally designed and executed scenery, costumes, props, sound and lighting equipment and make-up.

In addition to the cast members, six to eight older youngsters or community adults serve as assistant directors. Their responsibilities will include helping with rehearsals, costume fittings,

Quote of the Week

"Taking away school property tax funding and not replacing it was like a heart surgeon removing a heart from a patient and not having a donor's heart to replace it."
Congressman William D. Ford (D-13), chastising state elected officials for playing a game of "I'm bolder than you" when they eliminated property taxes for school funding.

Of Note

Elderly woman killed while crossing street

A 36-year-old Garden City man will be arraigned Monday before 18th District Judge Gail McKnight to determine if he should be charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol after striking and killing an elderly Westland woman Aug. 6, Westland traffic officer Steve Frazier said.

Agnes Harb, 70, was crossing the street to a McDonald's restaurant on Merriman Road north of Van Born at 9:25 p.m. when she was struck by the motorist, who was not speeding, but was intoxicated, Frazier said.

The woman died of multiple injuries 10 minutes later at Ann Arbor Hospital in Wayne, Frazier said.

Harb, who was alone at the time of the accident, did not cross the road at a traffic signal and the driver told police he did not see Harb on the road, Frazier said.

Harb resided at Leisure Village, a nearby convalescent center.

Road closing announced

Railroad officials announced today that John Daly Road, between Trowbridge and Dunning Street, will be closed this week to help facilitate railroad repairs in that area.

Repairs will begin Aug. 24 and should be completed by Aug. 27, they said.

Officials recommend that motorists use alternative routes during the repairs.

John Daly is a one of the main north-south arteries in the city of Inkster and motorists are advised to use Trowbridge to Beech Daly during the repairs.

"It will be an inconvenience," said John Lyons, director of public works for the city of Inkster. "However, the repairs are much needed."

Road widening planned

A $4 million reconstruction of Inkster Road into a Class A three-lane road from Wick to Eureka Roads is currently being planned.

Romulus City Council members are expected to approve a resolution in support of the project tomorrow night. A letter of support also is expected from the members of the Romulus school board.

The project, which is expected to spur industrial growth in the area, will be funded 80 percent by the state. The remaining 20 percent will be funded by Wayne County and the cities of Romulus and Taylor.

Schools may sell land

An offer to buy more than eight acres of Romulus School District property on Olive Street will be discussed Monday night by the Romulus Community School Board members.

The property once contained the old South Junior High School building that was demolished last year.

The property is currently vacant but is used for various local functions, such as the Franzen Brothers Circus performances.

Court probe continues, no charges filed

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

A five-month investigation of the 34th District Court has not triggered any charges and no reports have been issued on the progress of the probe.

In March, an audit by agents of the Michigan Supreme Court was announced. Since that time, 34th District Court Administrator Nancy L. Schuette and her assistant Tammy Riopelle, have been on paid leave. No charges have been filed against either of the women, according to the Michigan attorney general's office, and there is no indication of how long the two court employees will continue their paid leaves.

A spokesman for the state attorney general's office, confirmed that no charges have been filed, but declined to provide any additional information.

It has also been reported that the Michigan

State Police also launched an investigation. The state police probe has been completed and results have been turned over to the attorney general's office.

The court serves Belleville, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township, Romulus and Huron Township. Spokesmen for the communities said they have received no information on the five-month court probe.

"We would like to see this cleared up to protect the integrity of the court," said Belleville Mayor

Glenn Silvenis.

District court judges William Szlinis, Felix Rogalle and Henry Zaborowski have indicated that they will meet to decide a course of action when the investigation is completed, but, as yet, no statements have been issued by the judges.

In mid-March, when the probe was first announced, several questions were raised by the residents of the five communities: Have purchases been made without competitive bidding? Are accounting procedures being used without adequate checks and balances? To what extent have court funds been used to pay for trips by judges? Have court auctions been scheduled so as to restrict public access to them? Are funds unaccounted for in court accounts?

Both elected officials and residents noted that they are awaiting the results of the investigations to answer their questions and concerns about the court policies plus clarification about the two employees on leave.

Crown is dream come true for 5-year-old

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Every little girl dreams of wearing a crown, and that dream came true this month for five-year-old Stephanie Smith.

Stephanie, the daughter of Paul and Debbie Smith of Van Buren Township, won the title of Mini Miss North America 1993 at a pageant staged at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn. She also was named Miss Photogenic, won the Tiny Talent contest, earned the title Mini Miss Southeastern Michigan and scored as a runner-up in the television commercial competition.

Her victory was especially significant because the youngster has been suffering from a mysterious malady that has affected her bones and joints and caused the amputation of her left leg below the knee.

The winning of the title and the accompanying crown and trophy gave the child a much-needed boost following her months of hospitalizations, treatments and therapy.

At first, the illness that plagued Stephanie was a mystery, according to Paul Smith, who is a Van Buren Public Schools teacher. The malady caused Stephanie's left foot to swell and caused excruciating pain - so much, that the youngster would recoil at the slightest touch.

In July, 1992, Stephanie's left leg was amputated below the knee and she was fitted with a prosthesis.

She has been treated by specialists at hospitals around the country, and she is now awaiting the results of a biopsy that was taken in July. e Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., are working on a cure for the mysterious disease, which is now believed to be caused by an antibody.

While thumbing through the pages of a magazine at a doctor's office, Debbie Smith noticed the name of a Australian physician who is studying the autoimmune system at Columbia University. She left a message for him at his office, and he returned her call to ask for Stephanie's records and offered to lend his help.

Stephanie's case is unique, and the cause and cure continue to remain a mystery, said her father.

In the meantime, the disease has affected 29 of her joints, in a manner similar to rheumatoid arthritis, and the illness has also caused problems in her right foot.

"At first, the doctors didn't find any problem with her bones. They appeared to be normal, but a bone specialist discovered that the disease had attacked the bones from inside. From outside, the bone appears normal in an X-ray, but there isn't anything inside," Paul Smith said. "We do have some hope now. Doctors have clues as to what is causing the problem, and, as soon the problem can be identified, then the next step is a cure."

Police praise secret task force

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Metro Street Enforcement Team is probably the best kept secret in the area.

And police chiefs of the four participating communities - Wayne, Westland, Inkster and Garden City - would like to keep it that way.

The team, which began operations in September of 1992, was put together to fight street crime and criminals who cross city boundaries.

"This operation has been a very successful one," noted Wayne Police Chief John Colligan. "The members of this team have been actively involved in investigations that have led in felony arrests."

"And we plan to keep this team together as long as we can."

Inkster Police Chief Terry Colwell is also pleased with the success of the team. He stressed the mutual cooperation between the four departments has helped take individuals off the streets who have committed a wide range of felonies.

"The key I feel to this operation is the cooperation between all four departments, and it has been excellent," Colwell said. "We are getting results."

In its first six months of operation, the team has made arrests of four suspects wanted for homicides. Team members also arrested four armed robbery suspects, 38 felony drug arrests and have seized 15 vehicles, 18 weapons, $24,000 in cash and executed 27 search warrants.

"These statistics are only representative of much of the work done by MSET," said a police officer assigned to the team who asked not to be identified. "Also many of our activities require the expenditure of time and did not result in any arrest."

"However, the time spent may have helped clear a suspect for an investigator in one of our detective bureaus. While this may not be very glamorous, these activities are essential in freeing up detectives in our departments to better utilize their time and has helped expedite the resolution of cases and citizen complaints."

Among some of the team's accomplishments in the city of Wayne include:

- The arrest of four armed robbery suspects wanted in the cities of Wayne and Garden City;
- Raids and arrests at motels involving prostitution and drugs as a result of a citizen complaint to the Wayne Police Department;

Millage failure wounds schools

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Special Writer

Voters delivered a devastating blow to the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Tuesday when more than half rejected a proposed millage. With a total of 17,597 votes cast, just over half voted to defeat the 4-mill proposal.

As a result, 15,000 students will return to school next month with no cocurricular activities, a reduced staff and old textbooks. School board officials continue to plan the required $4,673,600 cuts in services necessitated by the outcome of the balloting.

While the school system has the funds to open and operate this year, Annette Kubeshesky, a representative for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is not sure about next year.

Another obstacle facing school systems, not only Plymouth-Canton but statewide, is the implementation of the State Aid Act, which would reduce the amount of money ascertained for education through F.I.C.A. and retirement plans. The State Aid Act is expected to begin this fall.

Kubeshesky could not give a definite reason for the millage failure. "Whenever you have an election, you are going to have people that vote not just because of the tax increases. Some people also feel that the schools don't need more money since we are building two new schools in Canton. People don't realize that the schools are being built with bonds and Michigan law dictates that bonds are only to be used for the purposes specifically voted on in the bond election," she said.

Bond funds, not used in day-to-day operations, and operational funds, voted on with the millage, are separate. While the Bentley and Tonda elementary schools are completely built, they will not be utilized as a result of the cuts. "There is not enough money to light and heat the schools," stated Kubeshesky.

Although the school board currently has no intention of putting the millage proposal before the voters again, they continue to deliberate on the best way to handle the recent defeat.

'Monster' movie takes a bite out of admission fees

We laughed, cried, clung to our seats, and gave the thumbs up and down to a wide variety of movies at the theaters this summer.

There were many action-packed films such as In The Line of Fire and The Fugitive which made hearts flutter from the time opening scenes until the credits rolled.

Tearjerker movies such as Free Willy were the big draw for children of all ages and adults. But, the most alluring film of all this summer was Jurassic Park, according to Tim Jahan, general manager of Canton Cinema 6.

"There was such a wonderful variety this summer, but Jurassic Park did come out way ahead of the others," Jahan said. "What was really nice is there were films which hit every age category which is a bit unusual."

National statistics indicate that Jurassic Park this week grossed more than $300 million in national release--only the second film to ever make that much money without counting overseas admission fees. The first? Another Steven Spielberg classic, ET.

Lines were long for Jurassic when it first came out, but those waiting didn't seem to mind, according to Jahan.

"They heard from someone in the family or a friend it was a fabulous movie, so they knew they wouldn't be disappointed, and it would be worth the wait."

Jahan didn't have exact figures for audiences which viewed Jurassic, but he said it was in the double-digit, thousand range at the Canton theater.

Canton resident Owen Crosby, one of the concessionists at Canton Cinema, said he really enjoyed Free Willy.

"I love whales," Crosby said. "I enjoy going to Sea World. After you see the movie, it makes you stop and realize how some people do mistreat whales and other animals."

C.J. Batten

'Jurassic' scores high with teen

By C.J. BATTEN
ANP School Reporter

Editor's note: The writer is a Belleville High School sophomore who writes a monthly column for the Belleville Enterprise plus other articles with a student focus

Every summer as far back as I can remember, movie makers release the films which they claim will be the best.

The question I had was, "Which one of these movies do I go to?" With ticket prices at $6 a piece, I'm sure a lot of other people wondered the same thing. So when doing this review, I selected the most advertised movies of the summer to watch.

At the beginning of the summer it was between two main competitors, Jurassic Park and Last Action Hero. I went to see Jurassic Park a couple of weeks after it opened and the theaters were still packed. The movie had me on the edge of my seat throughout the film. The special effects were some of the best I have ever seen, and the digital surround sound was spectacular. I rank it up there with Star Wars and Indiana Jones.

I did not see Last Action Hero, because a few friends of mine advised me not to spend the price of admission to see the movie.

The biggest comedies of the summer included My Boyfriend's Back, Coneheads and Robin Hood: Men in Tights. I decided to see Robin Hood because it was advertised the most. This movie was OK, but, I think it was overrated quite a bit by its television commercials and promos. This movie would be a good choice for someone who enjoys parodies.

A friend of mine recommended I go to see The Fugitive, a '90s version of the '60s television series sharing the same name. From start to finish, the movie kept me wondering what was going to happen next. This film was full of action, suspense, mystery, great acting and overall great entertainment.

The last movie I saw this summer was The Firm, starring Tom Cruise. This movie contained an excellent theme, suspense, realism, action and it had a superb ending. I recommend it to everyone that is able to purchase a ticket, and if you don't catch this movie in the theater, make sure you see it on home video. This is not one to miss!

Out of the all of the movies I rated, if I could only see one, it would be Jurassic Park because you can't get the same effect on home video as you can on the digital version in the theaters.

T. REX RATES THE COMPETITION

THE FUGITIVE

Harrison Ford is every bit as laconic and tormented as the original David Janssen was in the television series. Tightly directed and well paced, the taut torture of an innocent man mistreated by an uncaring and uncared criminal justice system should be a lesson to all. Tommy Lee Jones turns on the macho-man menace in what may prove to be a romance with Oscar.

THE FIRM

It's long, it's complicated, it's wonderful. While it doesn't provide the suspense and real character portrayal and detail of Scott Turow best seller--it does spiff up an ending which would do even the novel proud. It's a terrific chance to watch the man they said couldn't act prove everyone wrong. Tom Cruise does a splendid job while the wide-ranging cast of supporting players including Gene Hackman, Hal Holbrook, Ed Harris, Wilford Brimley and Holly Hunter get a chance to prove there are no small roles--only small actors. Oh, can that oatmeal man get mean. Don't miss it.

ANOTHER STAKEOUT

It's light, it's fun and it gives Rosie O'Donnell a chance to be a bit more than a stand-up comic. She makes good use of it--better than Emilio Estevez who really looks lousy in the fake (FAKE) mustache pasted under his nose. Richard Dreyfuss is, as usual, attempting to improve on perfection. He's a master of his craft and far too under appreciated. Lots of laughs.

SEARCHING FOR BOBBY FISHER

Parents pushing for success--children too tender to be able to vocalize the trauma competition presents. This is a wonderful story with a paced, delicate touch and a message not to be missed by both parents and grandparents. The movie moves slowly--but is beautifully directed with compassion for non-chess players. The acting and directing might be used in film class for how-to lessons. A thinking parents' movie.

CONEHEADS

Folks, it wasn't that funny as a Saturday Night Live skit, but still, it is light and amusing and will help to pass a long hot afternoon or evening. Obviously, Baldar and family from Remulak, an unknown planet, arrive on earth to make their home in California. Their strangeness is usually attributed to the belief that they are from France.

WHAT'S LOVE GOT TO DO WITH IT

Not much, one would surmise after seeing this tale of abused, neglected Tina Turner who escaped marriage to a drug-addicted wife beater. Poor Ike--he never stood a chance against a pliant nature and talent like hers. This is a feel-good, overcoming the odds, success story of a nice person who did better than all right. The music has audiences dancing in their seats.

SON-IN-LAW

Oh please. Innocent farm girl brings home quirky boyfriend who eventually endears himself to her straitlaced, middle class family. It does have it's moments, but you will not be seeing clips of this on Oscar night--and wise viewers will save money at a matinee.

SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE

Yes, it's a sappy love story of star crossed lovers. Sure it's slow and not always logical--but who cares? The music is worth the price of admission even without Meg Ryan and Tom Hanks. It is a wonderfully paced, terrific romantic movie. Those unaffected by pure sentiment ought to try maybe...Hard Target.

RIISING SUN

Oh, that Sean Connery. Oh that Wesley Snipes. Who cares what the Japanese think--this is one terrific movie with a message and a real story to tell. Connery is at his best and hasn't been this macho, brilliant and cool since he was double-o-seven. Be careful, this one has lots of sex--some of it graphic and after the 12th or 15th repeat, boring. There is nudity and perversion so don't take the children--or your mother. But go.

IN THE LINE OF FIRE

Here is real some real action. How many of us ever thought we'd see Clint Eastwood cry? This is a fine piece of work--well directed, fast paced and John Malkovich is truly terrifying as the villain. You believe his malice as much as Clint's tears. Whatever happened here with a somewhat mundane story line and some rather unlikable characters to begin with works--and works well. Sure--it's a bit predictable--when you see a glass ceiling in a hotel atrium, you can be sure somebody is going to fall through it. But, that's a petty criticism compared to the real entertainment value of the film. Even those who don't like Clint will admit to his skill in this one.

FESTIVAL FEATURES FUN, FOOLISHNESS

mayhem

n unlikely combination of jester and executioner is portrayed by a young Westland man at the 14th Annual Renaissance Festival.

"My character is Sir Bubbles McDeath - a court jester and executioner," said Glenn McDonald. "The role creates a lot of openings for morbid and grim humor, and the audiences love it."

One of his funniest bits is to follow festival-goers around the grounds clad in his hooded, executioner's garb.

"I sneak up behind someone and begin to follow them. People see me and start laughing, but the people don't know what the laughter is about," McDonald said. "Lately, I've been stalking police officers at the festival, and that has been a real crowd pleaser. They take it as just good fun!"

McDonald, 22, is a veteran performer with the festival, chalking up his seventh season this year.

"I started in the academy while I was in high school. The academy is a training place for young performers," McDonald said. "The second year, I played a wandering street poet, and since my third year, I've been a member of the king's court. We work together as a troupe, and play our lines off one another."

McDonald, who is a Michigan State University student, is enthusiastic about his role in the Michigan Renaissance Festival.

"It's a wonderful experience. You get paid to play," McDonald said. "It's such a good time that you want to keep coming back, especially to see the people involved."

McDonald believes this may be his last summer at the festival for awhile.

"I've got to get on with my life and my career, but then, maybe, I can come back again later on," McDonald said.

McDonald, an English major, plans to pursue newspaper and magazine writing and, perhaps, write for television or films. He and a group of friends at MSU write comedy pieces and also have a local access television program.

"I enjoy the acting, but I haven't been bitten hard enough by the acting bug to try it as a career. It's a very tough field," McDonald said.

Arts, crafts, music and skills of the Middle Ages will be revived in the kingdom of Holygrove through Sept. 26. Visitors to the event may Explore the Legend on seven weekends through Sept. 26; Renaissance Romance, Aug. 21-22; Festa Italia, Aug. 28-29; Peasant Olympics, Sept. 4, 5 and 6; Music and Dance, Sept. 11-12; Highland Fling, Sept. 18-19, and Country Wine Affair, Sept. 25-26.

Reigning over the festival will be King Edward and Queen Kathryn and their royal court. Joining in the merriment will be the Regent of Vulgaria and his entourage of evil-doers, troops of jugglers, equestrians, singers and dancers. Among the local participants are McDonald as Sir Bubbles McDeath; Todd Hissong, former Inkster resident, playing the role of sheriff, and Kevin Collins of Garden City portraying Roderick, the Vulgarian valet.

"I'm doing a new sword act three times a day this season. It's a lot of fun, and, as usual, it's a battle of the sexes. We have two men and two women in the sword fight, and the outcome is determined by the audience," said Hissong. "Usually, the women win, just like in real life. We hope to change that this year if a lot of men come out to rally us into a victory."

The performers noted that their attraction to the Renaissance Festival is mainly the interaction with the people who attend the event, many of whom attend in Middle Ages-style attire.

New attractions this year include the new stages of the Tree Top and Crown theaters, Tim the Truthful, glass-blowing demonstrations, 20 new craft shops and free games for children.

Tickets are $10.95 at the gate and $9.50 in advance for adult and $5.95 at the gate and $5 in advance for children, ages 5-12. Hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., rain or shine.

The festival can be reached by Interstate-75 to Exit 106, and then left onto southbound Dixie Highway.

Citizens quiz congressman about taxes, health care, schools

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

When Congressman William Ford (D-13) made plans to visit his home base this week, he offered to talk with Associated Newspapers editors about pending legislation and other topics of national concern.

However, we felt that if we differed our opportunity to interview the congressman and allowed the questions to be picked by a cross-section of area residents, the resulting concerns and queries would be more representative of the everyday items on the minds of average citizens.

Although a great deal of attention lately has focused on the North American Free Trade Agreement, the national deficit and our import-export gap, area residents picked questions about health care, revenue sharing, school financing and fetal tissue research to pose to the congressman.

Sumpter Township resident Christine Bentley, who operates Bentley Landscaping with her husband, John, questions the stability of Social Security for their retirement in the future.

Ford: "Acturaries say, at the present rate, it will carry us to 2015. When (former President Ronald) Reagan's reform package was adopted in 1983, it raised taxes substantially to support it. At the time that Social Security was established, no one was able to predict that people would be living longer, that there would be more people of recipient age and that there would be fewer and fewer workers."

Congressman Ford expects that it will be an issue in Congress before the 2015 deadline.

The uncertainty of the national health care program, which has been proposed by the Clinton administration, is a major concern of Dr. Anna Loranger of the Loranger Chiropractic Clinic of Belleville.

"As the owner of a small business and a member of the chamber of commerce, I'm concerned about the increasing taxes on small businesses," Dr. Loranger said. "I'm especially concerned about the pending health care legislation and how it will affect us."

Ford: "I can't think of any health care provider that will be made any less legal by a national health care plan."

The 29-year congressman noted that when he served as a state senator from 1963-65, he supported legislation to make chiropractic treatment acceptable by workers' compensation.

"I've heard and read a lot about Clinton's economic plan, but I really don't know what it's going to mean to the average citizen. I'd like to know how those plans will affect me," said Peter Doyle, owner of the Lakeview Print Shop in Belleville.

Ford: "If Mr. Doyle makes more than $11 million annually than he's due for a tax increase. If not, his tax bill shouldn't increase. A summary of the Revenue Reconciliation Bill of 1993 by H.R. Block reported that middle-income taxpayers - 82.2 percent of taxpayers - will see no change in their income tax rates. In fact, if their income remains the same, they will continue to receive a small tax cut each year, according to the Block report. As a small businessman, he will have $17,500 in expense allowance to apply on a new car or a press that he can write off when he buys it."

"I was appalled when I heard about the National Institute of Health Revitalization Act of 1993, which was signed into law by President Clinton on June 10. It allows, for the first time in U.S. history, government-funded research using tissue from aborted fetuses," said Gerald McKelvey, owner of the accounting firm, McKelvey & Associates. "The procedure, called dilatation and extraction, is heinous. I read about it one evening, and I was unable to sleep."

McKelvey poses the question, "Do you approve of the use of fetal tissue for research that was approved by the new law?"

Ford: "The reason that the right-to-life people oppose this is that they believe it endorses abortions. I don't believe a woman's decision to have an abortion involves worries about fetal tissue. I wouldn't want to shorten anyone's life that could be saved by research."

Ford noted that he has two acquaintances who are suffering from diseases that could be aided by fetal tissue research, and he termed it "obscene" to halt such research.

Karen Dugas, a 1993 Belleville High School graduate who plans to attend Eastern Michigan University this fall, wonders what plans the Congress has to aid education.

"I'm concerned about school funding, and I'd like to know what kinds of help the federal government can give our schools," Dugas said.

Ford: "I sent a letter to Gov. John Engler reminding him that the federal government gives the primary and secondary school in this state $600,000 annually. If the state and local effort (for funding education) is reduced and not replaced, it could result in a violation of the federal 'maintenance of effort' requirements and the reduction of federal assistance."

The congressman noted that the state has decreased its spending on education during the past 30 years. When he served in the state senate, 42 to 43 percent of education funds came from the state. The figure dropped to 26 percent in 1989 and 1990, putting more pressure on property taxes to pay for education.

Ford: Property taxes are the dumbest way to fund education. It's not fair. In my district - just one congressional district - there are school districts with two times the money per pupil as in others."

Belleville Mayor Glenn Silvenis, who acknowledges that he has had some differences of opinion with the congressman over the past years, questioned whether an elected official should vote on behalf of his constituents or his party.

"I don't know how a legislator could vote for the Clinton budget plan when the great majority of his constituents opposed it," Silvenis said. "If a congressman doesn't vote the way his constituents feel, then are they being represented?"

Ford: "People were against the tax reform bill, even before the figures were out. At first, my constituents might have opposed the bill, but the large majority of them ended up supporting it."

Congressman Ford noted that there has been an increase in opposition from pressure groups at the onset of discussions about pending legislation, often before all of the facts and figures are revealed. For example, he said, no one knew the final figure on the gas tax increase - 4.3 cents - until the night the bill was passed, but opposition was registered long before the decision was made.

Inkster Mayor Edward Bivens Jr. would pose the following two questions to Congressman Ford, "What are the chances of the renewal of general revenue sharing, either categorical or otherwise, and can federal funds be allocated for streets?"

"When revenue sharing was snatched away from the cities, it left a big void. I think it has to be revived," said Bivens. "We don't have the money for streets in our budget, and we need help from somewhere."

Ford: I'd like to say that I hope revenue sharing will be revived, but I can't. It was good for the cities - they got a check from Washington and they could reduce the amount of their taxes. We borrowed too much money (in the past) and now we are $4.25 trillion in debt and the interest on it is our third largest cost. The well is dry. No, I don't see a chance that it will be reinstated.

School leaders protest state tax cut

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Shortly after Gov. John Engler signed the historic school property tax cut bill into law in Greenfield Village, Romulus Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell and Michigan Education Association President Julius A. Maddox called a counter conference inside Wick Elementary School.

Pointing to the Wick School massive computer system, Bedell chided Engler's appearance earlier outside a 19th century one-room school house and said the two images presented by educators and Michigan political leaders Thursday tells much of the story.

"While the one-room school was a very useful tool in an agrarian society," Bedell said "this building and others being built across the U.S. represent the hope for survival of our democracy in a very complex world" today and in the future.

"When I was a student, it was possible for children to be under educated or to drop out of school and still receive good paying jobs in our heavy industry," Bedell continued.

"But," Bedell said, "it is obvious in today's world that we no longer can educate only one-half of our children."

Flanking Bedell at the Wick School podium was Maddox, formerly a Pontiac school teacher before being elected MEA president two years ago.

Maddox called Thursday a "sad day" for Michigan students, since the MEA had asked the governor to veto the property tax cut plan rather than sign it.

Totally supporting the student technology system offered in Romulus, Maddox said he is waiting to see a similar system in every school district in the state.

Maddox urged Engler and the state legislators to stop playing games with students' lives and work to prepare youth for the growing technology explosion in the work force today.

When questioned by out-of-town reporters, Maddox said there is "an excellent chance that some schools in Michigan may not open on time in the fall of 1994" if some school tax replacement plan is not approved before the end of 1993.

Bedell praised Romulus voters "who love their kids so much" that they approved a $45 million school referendum several years ago, after local students continually scored poorly on statewide education tests.

"What you see today in Wick School is duplicated in all schools in Romulus and the district accomplished it without any help from our representatives in Lansing or Washington D.C.," Bedell said.

In Dearborn earlier, State Treasurer Doug Roberts told a gathering of students and parents that the legislature may approve a new school funding plan without a ballot proposal and then ask the voters to approve an alternate school tax plan in 1994.

While the legislature can impose higher taxes on incomes, businesses and services, it needs the approval of the voters to hike the 4-percent state sales tax.

Roberts acknowledged that the state must come up with alternate funding for the $6.8 billion cut from school funding by Engler's signing of the property tax bill.

Engler favors a major hike in the state sales tax, but vows he will have a tax package available for scrutiny this October.

Engler called the period between now and October "a 100-day window...of that opportunity that only comes once in a generation-or maybe in a century."

Engler chided state educators efforts stating, "We are already paying for a world class education, now it is time to deliver one for our kids."

Elderly woman threatened, robbed

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

An elderly Westland woman was allegedly robbed of her purse on her way home from a Westland Farmer Jack's Grocery store Friday afternoon, Westland police said.

A 76-year-old Westland woman was walking back to her apartment with some bags of groceries near Frank's Nursery and Crafts at 34700 Ford Road, when she was allegedly approached by a youth who offered to help carry her bags, police reports said.

The victim refused the help and being suspicious of the youth and a second youth looking on, she quickly placed her bags between an utility pole and a fence separating the parking lot from the apartment complex, police said.

After putting the bags down, the woman held onto her purse and attempted to step through the fence opening, when the perpetrator allegedly reached around the fence and grabbed hold of the victim's purse, police said.

The woman attempted to hold onto the purse strap when the perpetrator pointed a black and white gun at her and said, "Let go ... or I'll shoot," police reports said.

According to police reports, the purse strap broke and the alleged attacker fled the scene. The victim quickly picked up her parcels and went to the apartment manager's office where she called police.

While making the report, the victim told police she remembered that the youth was standing in front of her at the grocery store checkout buying a black and white toy pistol.

The perpetrator is described as a 5-foot, 3 inch tall black male, approximately 15 years of age, with a slender build, wearing a white t-shirt and dark shorts. The second youth who allegedly observed the incident is described as a 5-foot, 2-inch tall black male with a slender build, wearing a red knit top and dark shorts.

In the fall, she'll be attending kindergarten at Savage Elementary School, which is barrier-free and can accommodate her wheelchair.

Although her future remains uncertain, Stephanie wears her royal crown like a princess and reigns over scores of supporters who admire her courage and determination.

TEAM

- The investigation, execution of a search warrant, and the arrest of a major drug dealer on Treadwell Street;

- Surveillance and obtaining information on two suspects who were responsible for several break-ins in Wayne and Westland. When the team arrested the suspects, the defendants revealed information that also cleared up illegal entries in Wayne and Westland.

In the city of Westland, the team was involved in:

- Investigation and execution of a search warrant at 5971 Globe resulting in the seizure of 20 pounds of marijuana, autos and several thousands of dollars;
- Investigation and execution of a search warrant at 1827 S. Harvey which was a large "grow house". There were 50 large plants seized from the building;

- Assisted Westland detectives in an homicide investigation which resulted in an arrest on various other charges, including the sale of illegal drugs to a narcotics officer. The suspect later confessed.

In the city of Inkster, the team was involved in:

- Assisting Inkster police in numerous arrests of prostitutes along Michigan Avenue;

- Raids that resulted in arrests of suspected drug-dealers. Team members also took over the house and posed as drug-dealers in a "sting operation" that resulted in arrests and vehicle seizures. Four of these raids were in direct response to complaints made by citizens to the Inkster City Council or the Inkster police;

- The team assisted the Inkster Police Detective Bureau in a homicide investigation that ended in the arrest of a man who was charged with the first-degree murder of an elderly Inkster woman on Middlebelt Road.

Colwell went on to say that "our only request (from the media) is that the names of the officers involved in this special operation not be used. Each of our cities has assigned one officer to this team and obviously we would like to protect their identities.

1993 Chevrolet Camaro

Hot stuff Camaro Z-28 lives up to reputation

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Like fine wine, women and song, the Chevrolet Camaro has gotten better with age since the scorching four-seat classic was introduced first in 1967.

The 1993 fourth-generation Camaro features a ski-slope chassis with a feline-looking front clip and a wraparound spoiler sculpted into the smart rear end.

But more importantly, it's what engineers have done with the Camaro propulsion package. Boaters call it the "through-hull exhaust".

Standard Camaro features a substantial 3.4L V-6 (same engine as the Lumina), or a larger-bore 3.1 V-6 offering 160 horses and respectable mileage (19 highway/28 city). But for real fanatics, Z-28 boasts a Chevrolet built 5.7L V-8 with some 275 ponies and a jolting 325 pound-foot of torque (anything more than 300 pound-foot means passengers shut up at green lights and hold on).

And coupled with an amazingly smooth six-speed (manual) transmission, the Z-28 really offers decent mileage in the 22 mpg range.

Camaro (Z-28) also offers standard four-wheel disc brakes and ABS, power rack-an-pinion steering, short and long control arm suspension and fat, 16-inch Goodyears.

Creature-comforts include a top-of-the-line Delco-Bose sound system and easy button-knob access.

Ride is surprisingly quiet and smooth (pardoning exhaust rumble, of course) with added structural sealing and muffling composites, and wheel feel is stiff and European like.

Creature comforts include a top-of-the-line Delco-Bose sound system and easy button-knob access. Fit is tight, however, and back bucket seat space is limited to only two small folks. Also, trunk grocery space is minimal and interior storage is sparse. But front seats are exceedingly comfortable and form fitted - don't rule out distance travel.

Camaro (along with brethren Trans Am) is easily the hottest American car on the road.

Taking a DARE Charity raffle marks North Brothers opening

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

North Brothers Ford in Westland will be celebrating the grand opening of the used car Select Showroom from 4 until 9 p.m. on Monday.

This latest addition to the North Brothers facility, located at 33300 Ford Road, expands used car sales by offering customers the opportunity to view previously owned models inside a modern auto showroom. Outdoor space has also been increased to hold up to 200 vehicles.

"We are very pleased to be expanding in the Westland community as we enter another 50 years of sales and service," North Brothers President Jim North said.

North Brothers and Westland Chamber of Commerce will be raffling off approximately $6,000 worth of prizes provided by the dealership with all proceeds from ticket sales being donated to the Westland Police Department Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) program.

Some $800 worth of tickets have already been sold toward a goal of $2,000 for the 7 p.m. raffle.

"We feel that the D.A.R.E. program is very important to the youth and families of this community. This is the reason why we decided to earmark the proceeds from the raffle for this positive and productive cause," North said.

The third generation of Norths continue to own and maintain the North Brothers dealership which located in Westland in 1969.
